Allies Produce Secret Weapon As 'Great Surprise' to Nazis

Chief of Ordnance, U. S. Army, Also Says Some of New British Weapons in Production Are Real Eye-Openers; Praises Women's Work

London, Aug. 26 (AP).—The head of the United States Army Ordnance Mission said today the British and Americans both were producing a secret weapon which would prove "a great surprise" to the Germans.

The ordnance chief is Brig. Gen. G. M. Barnes. Speaking after a tour of British munitions factories, he declared that United States and British armament production was sufficient both in quality and quantity for "the support of a full-sized army in any enterprise."

General Barnes said some of the new British weapons now in production were "real eye-openers."

The general, 56, is chief of the U. S. War Department design section and an expert on the design and manufacture of heavy ordnance, particularly anti-aircraft guns. He arrived in London recently at the head of a technical mission to work with the British in correlating allied fighting material.

He pointed out that the nature of his work, concerned chiefly with developing advanced types of munitions, must be secret, but declared neither the British nor Americans had to concede "any superiority to the Germans in qualitative weapons."

The type of the new secret weapon was not hinted. "It is no longer a question of ordnance production as far as supplying a vast army is concerned," he said.

He was quick to point out, however, that the transportation of weapons from the United States to Britain was not in his field and said he could not comment on the shipping situation. "A three-week tour of British factories has convinced me that America has a lesson to learn in the employment of women in munitions making," the general said at a press conference.

"We employ women, but we are going to have to employ many more. The British are using women in tasks such as boring guns, which in the United States is done only by skilled mechanics."

General Barnes expressed belief that American industry must train women for similar tasks.

A spokesman for the ministry of supply, under whose auspices the general came to Britain, interrupted to say that in production of certain parts of a new British anti-tank gun, 80 per cent of the work was done by women. The spokesman said the ministry was considering sending a group of British munitions workers to the United States to instruct American women in certain types of work.

British and United States ordnance already is rapidly being interchanged so that it can be used interchangeably by the two armies, General Barnes said, and cited such devices as anti-aircraft artillery and gun mounts.

He described himself as astonished at how little bombing had damaged British industry. The general said his mission would leave soon to return to Washington.

Aliens Are Arrested

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP).—Two German aliens were arrested and German and photographic equipment seized last night in 12 "spot searches" by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Utica police. Special Agent Arthur Cornelius of Albany announced today. The equipment included three short-wave radios, four cameras, two rolls of film, and a camera view-finder. Cornelius said two other German aliens were ordered to report today to Assistant U. S. District Attorney Robert Leamy here for questioning, and that the two arrested were turned over to immigration authorities.

About 150 Persons Are Taken to Ellis Island by Agents

Repatriates Aboard Liner Are Transferred Under Government Order; No Reasons Given

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 26 (AP).—Government officials announced today that about 150 passengers among the more than 1,400 repatriates aboard the diplomatic liner Gripsholm had been taken to Ellis Island for questioning.

While there was no official comment on the reason for this, ostensibly it was because officials had found their papers unsatisfactory or wished to question them more intensively. The U. S. immigration station is on Ellis Island and it is there that enemy alien hearings are conducted. There was the possibility that some might have been transferred there because of illness, since there is also a government hospital on the island.

Until last midnight about 300 passengers—including all of the American diplomats—had been disembarked, but by 10 a. m. (E. W. T.) today only about four or five more had left the ship and a customs official said it would take several more days at least to clear all the passengers who were brought here from the Orient in exchange for Japanese and Thai nationals in this country.

Some of those leaving the ship today said they had not been treated badly by the Japanese, but Harold S. Gunn of Brookline, Mass., for the past two years the representative of Warner Brothers in Shanghai, declared that while he had been cautioned not to submit to interviews he could say that treatment of prisoners in Shanghai was very bad.

"I was imprisoned—not interned—for 64 days," he said. "And all that time was spent in a cell by 17 with 30 other prisoners, mostly Orientals. Our daily ration was three bowls of rice."

Even as the big white ship came up New York harbor under the shadow of the Statue of Liberty yesterday morning carrying American, Canadian and Latin-American diplomats, missionaries, newspapermen and business men, federal investigators clamored aboard from cutters to prevent any undesirable from slipping into this country.

Although more than 1,000 aboard were American citizens from internment camps and homes in Japan and in Japanese-dominated countries who had sailed 18,000 miles to escape Japanese tyranny, these as well as others were being questioned carefully and made to prove their loyalty to the United States before leaving ship.

A government official said yesterday that any under suspicion would be transferred directly to Ellis Island for further examination, rather than be held aboard, in order to expedite clearance of the vessel.

Yesterday's check-up lasted from 8 a. m. (E. W. T.) until midnight, and it was said that at least two more days of questioning would be needed to complete the examination.

Such a deliberate investigation bore fruit last June 30 when the President to Give Living Costs Plan About Labor Day

Wages and Farm Prices to Be Covered; Both Sides Must Make Some Tough Sacrifices

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt today scheduled two additional, major radio addresses, one of which, on September 3, will be directed to the youth of the entire world.

The other, to be delivered August 31, will be made at the dedication of the new Navy medical center in suburban Bethesda, Md., on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

The White House disclosed also that a forthcoming presidential speech centering on the problem of spiraling living costs and inflation probably would be on Labor Day. Roosevelt had said yesterday he expected on, before or after Labor Day to send Congress a message and make a radio address to the country on a plan now being evolved to combat inflation.

President Has Plan

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP).—A new plan to keep down living costs by stabilizing both wages and farm prices is being readied by President Roosevelt for presentation to the country around Labor Day—September 7.

In making this announcement at a press conference yesterday, the Chief Executive said both labor and agriculture must make sacrifices—tough sacrifices, he emphasized—and that restrictions could not be placed on one without being imposed on the other.

He called the labor leaders, Philip Murray, C.I.O. chief, and William Green, A.F.L. president, to the White House today to go over the cost of living situation, as he already has done with farm and other groups.

No final decision has been reached, but the President said he hoped to have something ready to announce to the country in a radio speech, and simultaneously in a message to Congress, before, on, or after Labor Day.

There was some chance that the announcement might come before the end of this month, provided the President has made up his mind by then.

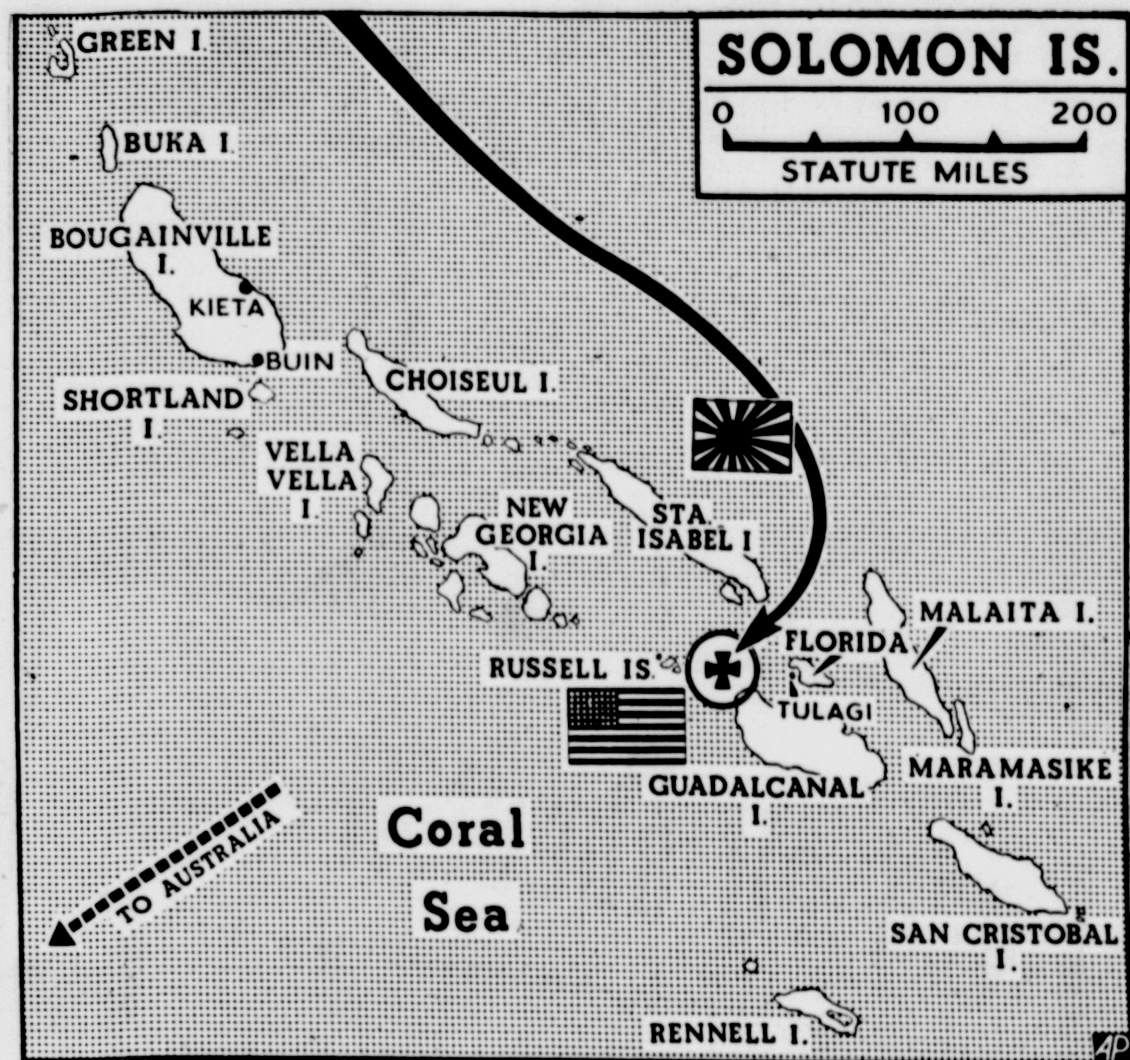

Whether new legislation would be sought was problematical, as Mr. Roosevelt said time was short and spiraling of costs may get out of hand in 30 days. Administration leaders began calling absent congressmen back to Washington, however, to receive his message.

The cost of living will be only a part of the speech he will make. The President said, indicating he probably would touch on the war in general. Nonetheless, the anti-inflation problem was expected to highlight the address in view of his assertion that this was a very serious matter affecting lives as well as the progress of the war.

Speaking more plainly about wage and farm price stabilization than at any time since his seven-point price control message to Congress on April 27, the President told his press conference that wages could not be stabilized without stabilizing farm prices, and farm prices would not be

U. S. Fights Jap Counter-Attack in Solomons

The Navy announced a great sea-air battle was in progress in the Southeastern Solomon Islands, where the Japanese had counter-attacked in force against U. S. forces which had seized part of the archipelago. More than six Japanese ships were damaged, the announcement said, including a transport and cruiser set afire north of Guadalcanal (X). The Jap attack came from the northeast, (arrow) but possibly originated at a base to the northwest.

State War Council Nullifies Ulster's School Bus Plan

Approval of School District to Transport Pupils to Kingston Voided by Officials

Action of voters of School District No. 8, town of Ulster, at the annual meeting in May, approving a resolution to provide transportation for all pupils in the district—elementary, high and parochial school—to Kingston, has been nullified by a decision of the transportation committee of the State War Council.

Heretofore pupils have walked to Kingston, used existing bus lines or been brought to school by their parents. The war transportation committee holds that since in the past it had been found possible to come to Kingston for educational purposes, the establishment of new services was not justified at this time.

District No. 8 is a large district and covers the territory of Lincoln Park and many homes on the Plank Road and the Sawkill road.

Notice of action taken by the war transportation committee was received Tuesday from Director R. C. Georger, by Percy Bush, trustee of District No. 8. Mr. Georger writes:

"In reply to your inquiry regarding the transportation of approximately 330 children from your school district to the Kingston schools, I wish to advise that this committee cannot approve the inauguration of new transportation services which are not essential to the war effort."

"It is our opinion that since the

Schools to Open Earlier In Order to Save Fuel

Kindergarten to Open Also for First Time In Three Local Grade Schools

In order to save fuel, especially fuel oil, the public schools in the city of Kingston are opening on September 1, it was announced today. Usually school does not open until the day following Labor Day but, by opening on September 1, the usual two full weeks of vacation may be given at Christmas at which time it will be possible to shut off most of the heat in the buildings and thus save considerable fuel, thereby assisting in the war effort.

This year for the first time in the city of Kingston, the Board of Education will open kindergartens. These classes will be held in Schools No. 2, No. 5 and No. 6.

Children entering the kindergarten must reach their fifth birthday on or before January 1, 1943; in other words, children entering kindergarten must be four years and eight months old in order to qualify for entrance. Children attending the kindergarten will remain in the kindergarten for one whole year, thus giving these children a much better preparation for their first grade work. The superintendent states that it would be much better for children who are just a little over five years of age to attend kindergarten rather than enter the first grade, providing of course kindergartens are available to those children.

Children entering kindergarten will attend only one-half day, i. e., two and one-quarter hours per session. In No. 6 School one teacher, Miss Mildred Simmons, will be in

Dewey Plots His Campaign Strategy

G. O. P. Nominee Would Profit by Errors of 1938, He Says

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, Republican entry in New York's three-way gubernatorial fight, plotted today a campaign strategy to "profit by mistakes" that may have cost him the governorship in 1938.

Losers to Democratic Governor Lehman by a narrow margin four years ago, Dewey conferred with all other candidates on the Republican state ticket for hours yesterday following adjournment of the party state convention which nominated him by acclamation Monday night.

"The candidates are discussing possible issues and reviewing errors made in the last campaign," an authorized spokesman for Dewey said. "We are determined to profit by our mistakes."

Dewey meanwhile dedicated his administration, if elected, to a top-to-bottom "house-cleaning" of New York's government and indicated state issues will be pre-eminent in his campaign.

He will return to New York city today to consider appointment of a campaign manager and make other plans for electioneering, which he intends to make intensive but brief—"to cause the least possible diversion from the war effort."

Conflict in Pacific Might Determine Sea Ruler and Eventual Victor

Fires Are Raging Nazi Planes Set Fire to Volga City, Drop Explosives

By ROGER D. GREENE

(Associated Press War Editor)

Thunderous sea and land battles raging on far sides of the globe held the fate of World War II in delicate balance today.

In the Solomon Islands, American and Japanese forces, locked in a conflict which may determine naval supremacy in the Pacific, fought over a widening area as the Japanese sought to rush reinforcements to the battle scene, 900 miles northeast of Australia.

"We are winning the second round of the battle of the Solomons," a Washington official said. But, he added: "The round is not over yet."

In Russia, massive tank and infantry battles flamed perilously close to the suburbs of Stalingrad and Soviet dispatches indicated that Adolf Hitler's 1,000,000-man invasion armies were now only a few miles from the great Volga steppes.

Dispatches from Moscow said that two successive Nazi thrusts through Soviet lines between the Don and Volga had placed Stalingrad in immediate peril of siege. German field headquarters said great fires were burning in Stalingrad and declared Nazi planes were pounding the city day and night with high-explosive and incendiary bombs.

Meanwhile, sections of the British press notified Prime Minister Churchill that Britain wanted concrete evidence that his journey to Moscow and the middle east would produce results.

The Daily Herald, organ of the powerful Trades Union Congress, declared:

"The British public's taste for trivial gossip about the prime minister's missions is flagging and its appetite for real news—news of results—is approaching the famine point."

Even the conservative London Times commented that neither the big Commando raid on Dieppe nor the R.A.F.'s bombing of Germany "has relieved the continuing sense of inadequacy in British military achievement at a time when our allies face a supreme crisis."

Dispatches emphasized the desperate plight of the Red armies before Stalingrad.

Late messages from the beleaguered city said the populace had taken up arms on the high west bank of the Volga as German armored columns advanced from the break-through on the Nazi side.

Thousands of workers from the factories, trained to use rifles, automatic machineguns and mortars, streamed out to combat the Nazi tide.

Similarly, Soviet workers helped turn back the Germans from Leningrad and Moscow last winter. A Vichy (French) radio broadcast said the Germans had consolidated their positions in the 40-mile corridor between the Don and the Volga for a climactic frontal assault on the metropolis.

Other Nazi columns striking from the southwest were less than 25 miles below Stalingrad, the broadcast said.

For the first time, Red army headquarters acknowledged that Stalingrad itself had become a battle sector, and dispatches to Red Star said German spearheads knifing between two Soviet defense forces had "reached a district just northwest of Stalingrad."

"The situation in this sector has become complicated," the Russian high command reported tersely. As the Germans poured division after division of tanks across the Don river, Soviet armored forces rumbled out to challenge Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's gravest threat—the key "city of Stalin" while army lines reformed behind screening tanks.

From the dispatches said the Russians had cut sharply into a flank of the German salient east of the Don, but the Nazis held the corridor open and continued to surge forward.

Local Astronomer Photographs Eclipse of Moon

Photos by Walter K. Powell

A brilliant moon which came up yellow as a pumpkin at dusk last evening, started moving into the path of the earth's shadow officially at 9:01 p. m., and an hour later observers knew definitely that an eclipse was under way. Then within a few minutes a moon which was giving out everything but daylight, became shaded slightly "under the chin" and the shadow began its slow, diagonal climb upward. At the halfway point the umbra, which had resembled a dirty face, took on russet glow and the shadow stayed thusly roughed until its trip off the upper tip and into space at 12:35 a. m. Shown above are pictures of the eclipse in four stages, the lesser shaded of which is the start of the eclipse and the others in successive development until only a final luminous rim is shown. The pictures were taken by Walter K. Powell, local amateur astronomer. Inverted positions of the shadow as shown in the pictures are due to the fact that the shots were taken through a small telescope, the various lens phases giving the effect of opposite action.

Boys Bound for Ulster's Orchards From New York Disembark at Yonkers

Never did a riverboat disgorge a gloomier bunch of passengers here than 100-odd high school boys who straggled heartbrokenly from the steamer Peter Stuyvesant at Yonkers yesterday.

As the big white ship steamed majestically up to the city pier for a brief halt before proceeding up the Hudson, the lads were waving gaily in the thought they were one port nearer their destination.

Bound from New York for this county, to answer a plea by Ulster county farmers for apple pickers, the youngsters had waited for weeks for the U. S. Employment Service to make the arrangements and at last were well on their way.

None paid any attention to a man running out on the dock with a yellow slip of paper in his hand, the Associated Press reports.

"Gee," said one boy, "that guy must be excited about something."

"Well," remarked another, "I'm not worried about him, but I wish this boat would hurry up. I can't wait to get there."

Think of it! In another few hours, they'd be picking apples in real orchards—a treat in itself for boys even if you didn't count the 30 to 35 cents an hour they'd make for this pleasant work.

But there was that guy with the yellow slip in his hand, and a couple of minutes later it proved to be a telegram from the employment office in New York directing that the boys get off the boat and return home.

The sad news was that the Schools to Promote Junior Aviation

New York's Plan Has Two Phases, One of Which Includes Flights

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—As part of a National program to have 2,000,000 boys between 15 and 18 years of age studying pre-flight courses by 1944, New York's high schools will inaugurate this fall junior aviation courses to reach "nearly every pupil."

The New York plan, financed by a $150,000 legislative appropriation, was announced yesterday by Education Commissioner Dr. George D. Stoddard and consists of two phases:

Officially credited pre-flight courses in 50 selected schools for juniors and seniors, some of whom might receive 35 to 45 hours actual flight experience.

A program of aviation for any high school, ranging from elementary introduction courses for seventh, eighth and ninth graders to power flying and gliding for older "honorary students" under Civil Aeronautics Authority instruction.

Dr. Stoddard, who conferred with school superintendents and principals yesterday, indicated the selected schools, to be announced probably within a week, would offer the course on an elective basis to boys and girls displaying "general fitness for some one of the aviation occupations." He said the extensive program, including plans for "every school in some respect," was organized with realization "not everybody is going to be a pilot."

Teachers must be certified by the C. A. A. or take a two-weeks training course at New York University which will consume the legislative appropriation.

Two periods (90 minutes) daily for the entire semester will be devoted by each selected school to the junior aviation classes. Classroom work will be divided between aviation theory and related subjects and laboratory work, including glider construction and airplane engine mechanics.

Model airplane flying courses were recommended to all high schools for 10th, 11th, and 12th year grade pupils as a primer for the later curriculum.

Supplementing the courses will be manuals prepared under Army and Navy supervision by the Air Training Corps of America whose guidance phases were described by Dr. Edgar Van Cleave of the State Education Department as essential for boys planning on college aviation training or going directly into the air force.

Solomons' Battle Is Highlighted by Gripsholm Return

Present Conflict May Go Long Way in Deciding Victory or Defeat for America

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

As the diplomatic exchange of Gripsholm plowed into the safe waters of New York harbor yesterday with its load of wan-faced Americans repatriated from the barbarities of loathsome Japanese prison cells, the home-coming wept and cheered brokenly at sight of the grand old Statue of Liberty and the Stars and Stripes of freedom.

Today in the far southwestern Pacific among the Solomon Islands American and Japanese forces are locked in a great sea and air conflict which may go far towards determining whether those Stars and Stripes shall continue to promise liberty.

A Japanese victory might take the Nipponese a long way towards achievement of their announced ambition of dictating peace in Washington. That would mean the transfer to our America of the torture chamber, the wholesale murders and rapings, and the insufferable militaristic repression which exceeds even Hitlerism in its brutal arrogance.

This is indeed a fateful moment for us and our allies. Not only is the wheel of fortune whirling in the Orient, but over in the milling Russian theatre Herr Hitler is throwing into the decisive battle of the Caucasus every ounce of striking power he possesses in an effort to make a kill. The position of the Red armies is one of dire peril, though it isn't by any means hopeless.

In perhaps eight weeks or so that wheel of fortune will stop spinning and the little ball will drop to tell us what our luck may be. Our great concern, of course, is Hitler. He must be stopped before snow flies. If we can keep him away from fresh resources, and preserve the Red fighting machine from destruction, then we shall have our grasp on sure victory, for we can handle the Japs once we have stopped Hitler.

Still, the Japanese and the Germans can't be considered as separate units at this juncture. The battle of the Caucasus and the battle of the Solomons are interlocking in their effect.

We haven't yet enough facts about the engagement in the Pacific to say that it will have decisive effects. We don't know the size of the forces engaged, and that is essential to our calculations.

However, from the meager information at hand it would appear that the Nipponese are gambling with a large section of their grand fleet. It also would seem that we have inflicted considerable losses on the enemy, but there's no word of what our own losses—if any—have been.

If the Japs are risking a great naval fleet, besides air power, then we have in the conflict all the elements for a decision which may be a sure guide to the outcome of the war with Japan. We appear to have the advantage of being able to meet the Japanese warships with land-based bombers, and in itself might spell disaster for the Mikado's forces.

If we can inflict on the Japanese now a further heavy naval loss, without ourselves suffering severely, then we probably shall have tied the supremacy of the Pacific in our favor. That won't be one but a whole handful of nails in the Jap coffin.

Why should the Nipponese make such an attack? Well, in the first place the Jap is a persistent devil and one of his characteristics is that he won't take a knock in the eye without returning to try to restore his standing in society. Beyond that, however, the islands which our leatherneck Marines now hold by right of bloody combat represent a base from which we can strike at the other Japanese conquests in that area and so threaten Indonesia. Our possession of these islands also deprives the Japs of an invaluable base for operations against Australia and weakens the barrier they erected across our communications with Australia.

Then again, so long as we hold the threat of these bases over the head of the enemy, he is handicapped in his operations against China, in any scheme for attacking Russian Siberia, and in any attempt to invade India. Now is the crucial time when Hitler might need the support of his ally, and the Japs want to be free to act according to their light.

Poison Found in Body

Lee, Mass., Aug. 26 (AP)—Lieut.

John Horgan of the state police said today that an autopsy disclosed poison in the body of Hanna Suijff Graf, 36, Austrian refugee and music teacher, which was found yesterday near the shore of Laurel Lake.

The police official added that the organs of the woman had been sent to Boston for further examination. The sister of Dr. Herbert Graf, stage manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Miss Graf had not been seen since she left Boston Saturday. The body was found in a bathing suit when found in bushes several feet from shore, and Lieut. Horgan indicated the theory of drowning was dispelled because no water was found in Miss Graf's lungs.

Dewey Plots His Campaign Strategy

ballots will occupy much less than 10 weeks possible under this year's advancement of all an election procedure. Dewey declared: "That extra time was intended only to permit the voting of soldiers, it certainly will not be used by me to campaign."

No Issue in War

Dewey asserted that war generally offers no issue between him and his opponents—Democratic Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., and Dean Alfange, American Labor Party—but declined to say whether he would appraise New York's war effort under the heading of "state issues."

"I am deeply convinced however," he volunteered, "that New York could make a better contribution (to the war effort) under a new and vigorous administration."

The former Manhattan prosecutor indicated he was hopeful of aid from Wendell L. Willkie, the party's titular national leader, to whom he lost the 1940 Republican presidential nomination. While he has not received any Willkie pledge of such aid, he said, "I assume all Republicans . . . will support our ticket."

At the same time he looks for no great help from the American Labor Party's nomination of Willkie. He believed it enhanced his chances of election, Dewey replied: "I presume so. I doubt that it makes much difference."

The American Labor Party cast 400,000 votes for Democratic Governor Lehman in 1938, providing his winning margin over Dewey.

Meantime State Democratic Chairman James A. Farley predicted in New York city that Dewey would carry an upstate margin of "much less than 250,000 votes" into the metropolitan area in the November 3 election, thus assuring a Democratic victory.

Farley, declaring he was "conservative in this estimate," said he based his prediction on talks with "leaders outside of New York city."

Dean Alfange, American Labor Party candidate, said of Dewey's plea for a state administration change: "He really is asking for a termination of the liberal, progressive tradition, inaugurated by Alfred E. Smith and raised to its present high level by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Herbert H. Lehman."

"It is not a change we need," he added, "but a further extension of the magnificent processes of democracy . . . that can only be achieved through a victory for the American Labor Party."

Aluminum Unions To Vote at Plants On W.L.B. Matter

Pittsburgh, Aug. 26 (AP)—Thousands of C.I.O. aluminum workers vote tomorrow at seven big plants of the Aluminum Company of America on whether they approve their local leaders' action in rejecting the War Labor Board's recent decision denying them a general wage increase.

Nick A. Zonari, president of the union, said a vote of approval by the union members would also give him power to call a strike in that vital war industry, if he deemed one necessary. The voting will continue tomorrow night.

Zonari, who was in Washington today, asserted he planned to appeal directly to President Roosevelt in event the members back up the action of their local leaders here last week in turning down the W.L.B. decision.

The W.L.B. held that the aluminum company's overall payroll had increased 15.8 per cent between January 1, 1941 and May, 1942. The board adopted a formula in the recent "Little Steel" case setting 15 per cent as the maximum for general increase during that 16-month period.

The vote will be conducted at plants in New Kensington, Pa.; Baden, N. C.; Alcoa, Tenn.; Edgewater, N. J.; Bauxite, Ark.; Detroit and Bridgeport-Fairfield, Conn.

Rationing Boards To Review Books

Local Boards Are Given Their Instructions

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—Local gasoline rationing boards have been instructed to re-examine all supplemental books with a view to prosecuting anyone found to have obtained extra allowances illegally. Paul M. O'Leary, deputy price administrator in charge of rationing, announced last night that the checkups would begin as soon as the local boards have completed action on all supplementary applications.

Particular study will be made, he said, of the actual requirements of those who obtained "C" books for extra mileage allowances and "S" books, giving service rations to delivery cars, trucks and buses.

Peruvians Flee As Quake Comes

Eclipse of Moon Adds to Their Terror

Lima, Peru, Aug. 26 (AP)—The residents of the little seaport of Lomas fled to the hills in terror last night when new earth tremors shook the village, which had been rocked by a severe earthquake Monday then swept by a tidal wave.

The main quake in the region south of Lima occurred Monday and struck the towns of Nazca, Palpa, Ica and others causing at least 12 deaths, numerous injuries and unestimated property damage.

The tidal wave at Lomas, which lies between Callao and Mollendo, was first reported today. Reports said the Pacific withdrew about 600 feet from the shore and surged back with a rush, flooding much of the town, destroying several persons and injuring many persons. The Pan-American highway near the beach was isolated.

British makers of "pain-spraying" equipment have perfected a machine which enables 10 persons to put the paint on 5,000 shells in eight hours.

Yonkers Ousts City Manager

R. J. Whitney Is Accused of Not Stopping City's Gambling Gangs

Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Suspension of City Manager Raymond J. Whitney was voted last night by the Yonkers common council which accused him of failure to suppress gambling and said it would start ouster proceedings within 30 days.

The council in one of three charges against Whitney alleged he was lax in enforcing anti-gambling laws and that his inaction led to Governor Herbert H. Lehman's recent request to "clean up" Yonkers.

In a resolution passed by a vote of 3 to 1, the council also accused Whitney of misleading council members on certain city matters, including a recommendation that valuable light fixtures be sold for junk.

The third charge was that the city manager failed to take disciplinary action against policemen for allegedly breaking into a private home without a warrant in search of gamblers.

The suspension resolution was introduced by Councilman Thomas B. Sheridan and supported by Mrs. Edith P. Welty and Curtis E. Frank.

It was opposed by Councilman James A. Sullivan, Mayor Benjamin F. Barnes, fifth councilman, was on vacation.

Norman Henderson, city engineer, was named acting city manager.

Whitney, former city manager of Royal Oak, Mich., and of Mamaroneck, N. Y., was receiving $10,500 a year in the Yonkers post.

Camp Happyland Visited by Group

County Health Association Is Entertained

On Monday evening members of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association met with the 46 girls of Camp Happyland. The children presented their play, "Around the Clock at Camp Happyland."

The cast carried out its entire routine from the rising bell at 7:30 o'clock with washing and cleaning of teeth, raising the flag and breakfast through the morning and afternoon chores, play, exercise, craft, rest and pool and ended in the evening with stunts, night and entertainment. Much stress was laid on the value of three good meals and the required one quart of milk each day.

A skit, "Ebenzer and His Family," brought many laughs from the guests as well as the children.

Following the children's play, Miss Murphy made a report on the camp activities of the boys during the four weeks in July as well as the health vacation of the girls during the month of August. The report showed both months well filled with work and play. And there is no doubt that these 95 youngsters with their 400 pounds of weight gained during the summer, will have stored up much health as well as knowledge for the year or years ahead.

The president, Joseph M. Fowler, spoke to the girls and complimented them on their accomplishment. He suggested that they boost "Christmas Seals." For, said President Fowler, "it is through the purchase of Christmas Seals by the good folks of Ulster county that Camp Happyland and the other activities of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association are made possible."

On Wednesday the Happyland girls will repeat their play for their parents. After inspection, the campers will close Camp Happyland for the season of 1942.

Farmers Are Urged To Insure Crops

Will Protect Grower From All Possible Damages

Ithaca, N. Y. — The sum of $175,000 lost and gone forever: that is what wheat growers of New York state lost last year by not having their wheat crop insured, according to Earl A. Flansburgh, state executive assistant administering the A. A. A. program in New York state.

Wheat crop insurance is an important part of the wheat program. Wheat crop insurance protects the wheat grower from all hazards, such as, drought, flood, fire, insects, plant disease, wind, hail, tornado, winterkill, and all similar risks.

Any wheat grower can insure his wheat crop and be guaranteed 75 per cent of the normal yield for his farm. The cost of this insurance is only a fractional part of the market price of a bushel of wheat, Mr. Flansburgh states. The premium does not have to be paid in cash but will be deducted from any payment the wheat grower earns under the A. A. A. program.

A. A. A. county and community committeemen are now prepared to take wheat crop insurance applications on the wheat that will be planted this fall.

Wheat growers who wish to insure their 1943 wheat crop should consult their A. A. A. county committee, their local A. A. A. community committeemen or their county agricultural agent for full particulars at once. Wheat growers cannot insure their wheat crop after the wheat is planted or after September 15, 1942, which is the closing date for accepting 1943 wheat crop insurance applications, according to Mr. Flansburgh.

The original Panama City, founded in 1519 was destroyed by Morgan the buccaneer in 1671.

Hard Fight Due In Fall Elections

Heated Race Is Staged in California Primary; Others Are Listed

(By The Associated Press)
Two primary opponents who waged a heated battle for California's gubernatorial nomination were assured today of a return match in the fall elections.

The Republican nomination went overwhelmingly to Earl Warren, a leading state Republican, who also gave Governor Culbert L. Olson a dogged race for the Democratic nomination in yesterday's primary. Running on both tickets, Warren polled an aggregate of nearly twice as many ballots as Olson who sought only the Democratic nomination.

In one of South Carolina's closest primary contests, Senator Burnet R. Maybank, an administration supporter, held a relatively close lead over Eugene S. Blease, who campaigned as a champion of "white supremacy" for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate.

Mississippi's primary gave James O. Eastland, lawyer and planter, a 10,000 vote margin over his nearest opponent in the contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

His opponent in a primary runoff three weeks hence will be either Senator Wall Doxey or Rep. Ross Collins who were in a close battle for runner-up honors on the basis of unofficial and incomplete returns.

The California primary results were termed by Warren "eloquent evidence that the people . . . will not stand for another four years of Olsonism." Olson asserted that conclusions based upon the ballot totals would be misleading and predicted a Democratic victory in the election.

Five congressmen whose voting records on defense and foreign policy drew campaign fire from opponents, took wide leads in their own party contests for renomination. They included Representatives Tom Rolph, Harry L. Englebright, Albert Carter and Richard J. Welch, Republicans, and John M. Tolan, Democrat.

Lieut. Will Rogers, Jr., son of the late humorist, apparently was winning the Democratic congressional nomination in the 16th District over Republican Representative Leland M. Ford, but appeared to be losing the Republican nomination to the same opponent.

Rep. A. J. Elliott, Democrat, appeared to have won renomination and Rep. Frank H. Buck was leading in his contest for Democratic renomination but was trailing J. Leroy Johnson on the Republican ballot.

Former Governor Olin D. Johnston, Democrat, acquired a mounting lead over Wyndham M. Manning for South Carolina's gubernatorial nomination. Representatives Butler B. Hare, J. P. Richards and John J. McMillan seemed assured of Democratic renominations.

Five Mississippi congressmen won Democratic renomination and one, A. D. Ford, was defeated by Thomas G. Abernethy, Okolona district attorney. Circuit Judge Arthur G. Busby led over three opponents for the Democratic designation to the Fifth Congressional District seat vacated by Rep. Ross A. Collins.

WORDS IN SEASON

Talk is plentiful but good talk scarce. Some men who have done other things worth while are chiefly remembered because they could talk well. Dr. Samuel Johnson made the first great English dictionary, wrote important books; but people remember him by the sayings reported by Boswell. That is nearly the case with Oliver Wendell Holmes, physician, wit, essayist, whose birthday is August 29.

Holmes was the last of the great New England group of writers which included Longfellow, Lowell, Whittier, Emerson, Thoreau and Hawthorne. He was the father of Supreme Court Justice Holmes, whose life span reached almost to a century. His poem "Old Ironsides," which saved from destruction the historic frigate Constitution, was written in 1830, when he was only 21. It first appeared in a newspaper—the Boston Daily Advertiser—one more example of the important matter that may be found in the daily press. His other best-known poems, "The Chambered Nautilus," and "The Wonderful One-Hoss Shay," used to be, and should still be required reading for every school child. Famous also were "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table" and the novel, "Elsie Venner."

As a physician, Holmes was in advance of his time. But as a talker his memory is handed down. It was he who jestingly called Boston "The Hub of the solar system." Many who could not quote a single one of his sayings know him as the most brilliant talker this country has had in many years. Words are sometimes more lasting than deeds.

TRAITORS

France lost the war because of her traitors. That is now generally known. What is less appreciated is that those traitors were not small fry, but people in high station. Steel-owners kept trade going with Germany despite the war, so that French soldiers were killed with French steel. Important Paris newspapers were on the Nazi payroll.

Other details are now furnished by Henry Torres, a French lawyer, in his newly published "Campaign of Treachery." He tells of big fees paid to French writers for lectures attended almost entirely by Nazi agents, ordered out to fill the halls. Also of big royalties for German editions of books which were never published. French movie stars got big salaries to appear in German films that were never shown. Large manufacturers, says Mr. Torres, resenting the 40-hour week and other labor legislation enacted by the liberal premier Leon Blum said openly, "Better Hitler than Blum!" They got their wish; it would be interesting to know how they like it now.

These were the people that did the harm, these and their agents in politics like Laval. Obscure persons grumbling at the war or reading ill-printed sheets of small circulation might be arrested till the cows came home, without helping the country one iota. The real danger was above, and it was not touched.

There lies, perhaps, a lesson for Americans. As Torres says, "Be on your guard! You never can be sufficiently on your guard!"

REPUTATIONS

The graveyard of reputations was what they called Spain in the Napoleonic wars, because generals who had done well elsewhere, like Napoleon's generals Soult and Massena, there for the first time met defeat and failure.

North Africa is getting to be like that. The British have removed General Auchinleck, who not long ago was put in, with high hopes, in place of General Ritchie. Ritchie in his turn succeeded Cunningham, and Cunningham followed Wavell. All were well thought of when they started, some still are; but all were beaten by Rommel and replaced. That is war. Whatever its cause, defeat means demotion.

Rommel's reputation, by the way, still stands.

MAC'S STRATEGY

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has been rather out of the limelight lately, so that some observers seemed to think he was being shelved, came across with a neat job connected with the American seizure of the Solomon Islands. MacArthur has lived and operated long enough in the Orient to know oriental ways, and this is the trick he is said to have pulled on the Japs.

The story is that the American fleet was able to move into the Solomons with so little interference because MacArthur created a diversion which fooled the Japs. He complained so loudly about being shut up in Australia, and not being able to start an offensive because he lacked cargo ships, that they believed him and were off their guard. Then, as additional protection for the fleet moving toward the Solomons, he sent his bombing planes northwest to New Britain Island, and blew up some ships there, thus engaging the enemy attention far away from the main assault. So the Japs were doubly humiliated.

RAIL PROSPERITY

There has been a growing demand for railroad bonds lately, with such securities rising in value. This is not speculative, but a natural result of the prosperity returning to the railroads after a long period of poverty. Roads that have not made money for decades are paying dividends now, as the immense demand for rail transportation presses them all into service.

An interesting effect of this prosperity wave has been the suggestion in Wall Street that Congress might give the railroads permission to use surplus earnings for buying up their own bonds. There would doubtless be quite an argument about that. It would seem a good deal like personal income taxpayers using all their abnormal war profits to pay their own personal debts instead of divvying with the government.

William Saroyan, dramatic writer, says he can't spare time for the army draft because he's producing a new play. Well, if he plays soldier, people will at least know what he's driving at.

Donald Nelson doesn't really need to "knock off the heads" of the fellows getting into his way. Just bump them together and hear 'em rattle.

This is the Year of Battles. Experts say there may soon be violent fighting all over the world.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

ULCERATIVE COLITIS

That sudden fright, or fear, can cause an attack of diarrhoea has been known for years; that anxiety (chronic fear) can cause a continuous diarrhoea is now generally admitted. This chronic diarrhoea is called colitis, mucous colitis, and spastic colitis. The method giving best results in the treatment of this form of colitis is acquiring a calmness of mind and eating smooth easily digested foods.

In the severe or ulcerative type of colitis where, instead of mucous, pus and blood pass out in the stool, it has not been believed that nervousness or the emotional disturbances were the cause, wholly or in part. Today, however, physicians are finding case after case in which some emotional disturbance has been followed by ulcerative colitis.

Dr. George E. Daniels, New York City, in the New England Medical Journal, tells of the work done at the Constitution Clinic at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, in 1939 in which disturbances of the stomach and intestines were studied from various angles including the mental or psychologic.

One of these research workers was struck with the well-marked time relation between the outbreak of an emotional disturbance and the onset of the symptoms of ulcerative colitis. In reporting this "he emphasized the fact that it is not sudden fright that causes the difficulty but a new situation which thereafter keeps the patient in a constant state of apprehension (fear)."

From the above, then, we learn that just as chronic diarrhoea with mucous can be caused by anxiety or chronic fear, so also can the more serious colitis—ulcerative colitis—be caused by emotional disturbances, particularly of course, in those with a personal or family history of emotionalism.

The lesson is plain. Sufferers with colitis—simple or ulcerative—should first consult their family physician and discuss possible original causes and then, if necessary, consult a psychiatrist.

Diet in Mucous Colitis

The most important factor in clearing up mucous colitis is the acquiring of a calm outlook on life. Diet, too, plays its part. Send today for this new leaflet by Dr. Barton called "Diet Suggestions in Mucous Colitis." Just send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 150, Station Times Square, New York, N. Y., and ask for this leaflet by name.

Maybe It's No "2d Front,"—But a Trifle Annoying

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Feasting, oratory and dancing featured the formal opening of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston's newest hotel, on May 20, 1926. For years there had been dreams of a new hotel being erected in the city, and the dreams materialized into reality that night.

Herbert Carl, president of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, owners of the new hotel, presided at the banquet and introduced Judge William D. Cunningham who served as toastmaster. Among the Kingston men who spoke that night were Dr. George F. Chandler, Mayor Morris Block, Philip Eiting, the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Sealey of the Fair Street Reformed Church, who offered the invocation, and the Rev. Ignatius Bialdys of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, who offered the benediction.

Following the banquet dancing was enjoyed to the strains of Harry Maysen's orchestra. Many of the leading men and women of Kingston attended the formal opening of the new hotel that night.

The other day I wrote a sketch about some of the old sleighs that used to convey parties of young people to the old Red House on the Saugerties road on a winter evening when sleighing was good. My attention has been called to the fact that Peter Hamilton operated a livery at Ann and Mill streets and in the 1860's built a sleigh that would hold about eight passengers. This was, said my informant, the first sleigh used to drive parties to the Red House for a chicken dinner and dance.

So great was the demand for the use of the sleigh that a larger one capable of carrying 24 passengers, was built. It was named the John T. Hoffman.

Peter Hamilton used six horses to draw the sleigh and my informant writes "and was Pete proud to hold the ribbons over the six horses."

What became of the sleigh after 1870 the writer did not recall but his recollection was that it was stored in the livery stable on Mill street for a number of years.

The death some time ago of I. Stuart Williams recalls to my mind the years that Mr. Williams served as a member of the local civil service board. Others who served were Howard R. St. John, Harry S. Watts, James McAndrew, Peter J. Crough, Walter J. Weeks, Judge Augustus Shufeldt, James H. Betts, and L. E. Dunne to mention but a few.

I recall that when Palmer Canfield became mayor he appointed William W. Taylor to serve as secretary of the civil service board. Others who served as secretaries were L. E. Dunne, Judge Shufeldt and myself.

"Destroy it, the Fifth Column is like a snake," says one of the new Cuban postal stamps to be issued as a message against Fifth Column activities. Five new stamps will be included in this series. The one mentioned is 5-c value.

Other inscriptions will read as follows: "Desenmascare a los quintacolumnistas" which is translated, "Unmask the Fifth Columnists."

The design of this stamp shows a pretty mask being pulled from the face of a cruel looking man. Value is 1-c.

"Cumpla su Deber Patriótico destruyendo la quinta columna" is the 10-c inscription. The translation: "Do your patriotic duty by destroying the fifth column." "Cuidado! La Quinta columna te espía" means "Be careful, the Fifth Column is spying on you." The value of the stamp with this inscription is 3-c.

"No tema a la quinta columna ataquela" or "Don't be afraid of the Fifth Column, attack it" is inscription on the 13-c.

Date for issue of these stamps and colors will be announced later.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"THE DAYS OF OFELIA," by Gertrude Diamant.

Gertrude Diamant recognizes the fact that as foreigners explore a country, and write about it, they unconsciously tend to build up a picture of the country which fits the idea foreigners already have achieved. Thus, for many years, the French were described as volatile, frothy people bent exclusively on pleasure, whereas they are in the main painfully respectable and dreadfully dull, circumscribed by their conventions and frugal to a point that would horrify a Scot.

To a lesser extent, this is true of Mexico, and this is where Miss Diamant comes in. It appears that she with the idea of giving intelligent tests to the Otomi tribe. There was some reason for this odd desire, but it is unimportant. Miss Diamant did do some testing, and found out little beyond the fact that although the Otomis reacted slower than most citizens of the United States, they reacted just as accurately. She also fell in love with Mexico, lingered on and on, and after she had returned to the United States she sat herself down to interpret Mexico to her neighbors. She has done a good job.

She lived in a new apartment on the outskirts of Mexico City—at least one gathers it was on the outskirts. Around her, other buildings were going up, and around these slowly growing buildings there were huts in which the laborers lived, including the Escotos and their dozen or more children. One of the children was Ofelia; Miss Diamant calls her book "The Days of Ofelia" because the child quite literally forced herself on the visitor as her maid, and ruled her mistress' life in a strange way. It is a September Book-of-the-Month.

The colors, the smells, the sounds and the movement of Mexico City are in "The Days of Ofelia." But also the texture of Mexican life is there—its poverty, its ignorance, its often brilliant intuitiveness. The Escotos frequently came to what we should call wrong conclusions, but Miss Diamant was able to see that starting from the Escoto premise, and granted the Escoto philosophy and racial background, the conclusions were inevitable. The book hangs delicately between comedy and tragedy. It has movement, warmth and great charm. And it does not change greatly in the impression most of us have of Mexico—after all.

Bees Play Part In War Effort

Quantities of Beeswax Are Needed by Forces

Ithaca, N. Y. — Large quantities of beeswax are now being used by the army and navy for waterproofing materials and shell coating, says Dr. E. J. Dyce, entomologist at Cornell University. With the honey extracting season at hand beekeepers should make an extra effort to save the beeswax requested for national defense.

Beeswax is now 40 cents a pound on the market and a definite shortage may result from any failure to import it from the Philippines, South America, and Africa, Dr. Dyce points out. According to Dr. Dyce beeswax may be obtained for market from burl comb, brace comb, cappings, old crooked comb and from frames of combs made up largely of drone cells.

Crux of Manpower Situation Is That U. S. Selective Service Fails to Make Fair Choices of Citizens for Army

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 26 — Has America a manpower policy?

Difficulties of administration, especially with 65,000 hard-working local draft boards to apply the rules, are understandable but failure of a national agency to supervise the orderly and fair selection of citizens for military duty is not understandable. The President has been given plenary power by Congress and he has turned his back on it. The Selective Service headquarters here, but Mr. Roosevelt probably doesn't have any means of checking up on the efficiency of the draft officials who are managing the Selective Service System. This means that it is extremely difficult for the true state of affairs to become known to him or for mistakes to be corrected. Not a single public report on the operation of the quota system is available.

But apart from questions of administration, wherein local draft boards say one thing, the national headquarters say something else and unfairness is frequent, the matter of national policy is even more of a puzzle.

Thus the law permits the President to issue regulations putting citizens in groups or classifications of any kind whether of age or industry or geographical location. For many months, Senator Taft of Ohio used the draft headquarters should establish some differentiation between the different classes of married men and now at last something of the kind has been developed. But it is still a mystery why the national draft headquarters is permitting married men below the age of 30 or even 35 to be considered on the same footing as men of 40 to 45.

Plainly the older men, especially those with children, have a different status in that younger men are not only physically better qualified but, if there are children, the chances of wives being employed or being able to have their children stay with grandparents or relatives is far better in the groups under 30 than those between 40 and 45.

Another inconsistency is in the handling of the 18-to-20-year-old age group. Assuming the war is going to last two or three years more, these boys will surely be drafted. Is there any reason why Congress shouldn't order that their training be begun now? Should they be permitted to start jobs in various industries and then be deferred later as "necessary employees?"

If it is the Selective Service policy not to draft the 18-to-20-year-olds, then why do both the army and navy keep on recruiting every day boys from that category? If they are too young to be drafted, why are they not too young to be accepted by either the army or navy on a volunteer basis?

Another policy that is difficult to understand relates to occupational classifications. Draft boards are saying categorically, "We don't defer lawyers" or else they say, "We don't defer any newspapermen," and so on through the various occupations and professions.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Aug. 25—Local school District No. 1, town of Olive, is to open next Tuesday instead of Monday, as was reported last week, with Ralph Eighmey of Willow as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGowan and their daughter, Joan of New York, are spending some time here at their summer cottage.

Thomas Pedersen is spending some time at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glenford Davis.

Twenty-one from here last Thursday evening attended the party and supper at Lyonsville Community Club house for the benefit of the Lyonsville Reformed Church. It is reported they cleared over $100 and some returns are yet outstanding. This makes the best party the Lyonsville Church has had in many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Tilton were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Davis' sister, Mrs. Florence N. Christiansa, and John A. Barringer.

Miss Olive Galbraith of Middletown, who has been spending some time visiting at the home of cousins, Mrs. Simon Merrihew and her son, Henry, has returned to her home.

There was a fine attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid at the parsonage last Friday. The next regular monthly meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Katie Davis, Friday, September 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tease and children of Springfield, Mass., visited at the home of Mrs. Katie Davis last week.

Last Sunday morning Mrs. Katie Davis' son, Harold, and his two sons, Richard and Robert, also Ernest Meyers of Hurley visited at the home of Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Charles Dievescher and her daughter, Nellie of Jackson Heights, L. I., who have been spending several weeks at their summer cottage have closed the cottage and returned home.

Church school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock; morning divine worship service will be at 11 o'clock, with sermon by the pastor. The subject of the sermon will be "Good News."

Ample Supply Seen Of High Top Wheat

Good Barley and Rye Also Are Sufficient

Geneva—For years the quality of seed wheat available to New York state farmers has not equaled that of the stocks of certified seed now coming on the market, declares Prof. M. T. Munn, head of the seed testing laboratory at the Experiment Station here. Also, apparently the supply is ample to meet all needs in this state, as is that of good barley and rye seed, he says.

"There certainly should be no occasion this fall for New York farmers to plant anything but the very best stocks of high-yielding wheat," Prof. Munn says. "The win, Nured, and others, if one may judge from the samples submitted to us for test by members of the New York Seed Improvement Association who aim to have their seed wheat meet the high standards set for certified seed," continues Professor Munn. "Not a number of years," he continues, "have our records shown such high quality as to purity, germination, and bushel weight as have lots received to date. Along with the samples have come reports of record yields, some even 50 bushels per acre."

These stocks of seed wheat have presumably passed rigid field inspection as to freedom from disease and varietal purity made by trained inspectors. All of these lots so far tested meet the high standards for certification; and since they are coming from widely scattered wheat-growing counties in the state, there should be a supply nearby and at reasonable prices considering the quality.

Along with the samples of seed wheat have also come samples of the new and promising winter barley known as "Wong," as well as samples of the new No. 76 rye introduced by plant breeders at Cornell. All in all," concludes Professor Munn, "it seems certain that anyone who plans to plant grain this fall can secure an ample supply of good seed for his acreage. If he will do this and then treat the seed to control disease, he will find that the seed will treat him well in this emergency." One should be very certain of his seed source, however, since the control field plantings now being harvested at the Station show plainly that some of the open market stocks sold last year as Yorkwin wheat were badly mixed and did not yield as high as expected. They were not at all comparable to the real Yorkwin. In buying certified seed the purchaser is certain to obtain seed true to name."

King Rules Month Of Mourning for England's Court

Death of Duke of Kent Is First in Century in Royal Family as War Fatality

London, Aug. 26 (P)—All Britain, where the grievous message "killed on active service" has darkened countless households, offered understanding and sympathy today to her royal family, bereaved by the death of the Duke of Kent, King George's youngest brother, on a wartime mission.

The duke, fifth in succession to the throne, died in the line of duty yesterday when the Sunderland flying boat which was taking him to Iceland for the R. A. F. crashed in northern Scotland.

Circumstances surrounding the crash of the four-engined, 20-ton flying boat were held in strict secrecy but an authoritative source said it was in no way due to enemy action.

The plane was believed to have crashed against a mountain. The lord chamberlain announced that by command of the king the court would remain in mourning four weeks.

All 15 persons in the plane were killed and their bodies recovered. Among them in the plane was Michael Strutt, the duke's aide and son of Lord Belper. He is survived by his widow, the former Arielle Frazer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Washington Frazer of Detroit. He once worked in Wall Street.

The body of the duke, who was the first member of the British royal family killed in an airplane and its first to become a fatality of war in a century, was to be brought to London later.

An air ministry investigation has been launched into the crash, which occurred in desolate country about 60 miles from the take-off. Press reports said it was in an area where other planes have been wrecked. Semi-official sources emphasized that the pilot was one of the most capable in the R. A. F.

The 39-year-old youngest son of Queen Mary and the late King George V was the most air-minded of all the royal family.

His career in Britain's service began as a naval cadet, at his father's choice, before he was 14. But his interest turned to aviation and he served devotedly with the R. A. F.

The marriage of the Duke of Kent to beautiful Princess Marina of Greece in 1934 was one of the most resplendent royal occasions of the century. They had three children, Prince Edward, 6; Princess Alexandra, 5; and Prince George, who was born last July 4 and bears also the name of Franklin for President Roosevelt, his godfather.

As soon as news of Kent's death was telephoned to King George and Queen Elizabeth at one of their summer palaces, the King sent a special messenger to break it to the duchess at her simple Buckinghamshire house, the Coppins, and arranged for other members of the royal family to go there to comfort her.

Grain Prospects Excellent

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 26 (P)—Although temperature changes were great during the week ended yesterday, and a need of moisture was felt in some sections of New York, pastures and meadows were in good condition and grain crop prospects were "excellent." Federal Weather Bureau officials reported today. Potato blight spread in unsprayed fields, the weekly review continued, and both potato and bean fields in some sections were weedy. Apples were coloring well, however, and farm work progressed satisfactorily in the favorable weather.

Free Cigarette Fees Will Be Checked

Washington, Aug. 26 (P)—Army officials, disturbed by news that American soldiers at an army camp in Egypt were required to pay for cigarettes sent by "Smokes for Yanks" for free distribution, said today an investigation was being made.

Lacking an official report, they suggested meanwhile that the explanation perhaps was that through a shipping mixup the free cigarettes somehow were delivered to the wrong destination, while others intended for sale were now being distributed free at another point.

The packing cases in which the packages or cartons were placed for overseas shipment may not have had distinguishing marks, it was said, or if such markings were placed on them at the time of shipment, they could have been obliterated by the time they reached Egypt.

Similar occurrences in the first World War, it was said, led to stories that some organizations were "chiseling" by charging for cigarettes intended for free distribution, and the charges persisted despite investigations which disclosed the trouble arose from misdirected shipments.

Scope of Solomons Battle Is Wider

still progressing on the flat countryside northwest of Stalingrad. At mid-day, after reporting the slaughter of 2,000 Germans and the destruction of 80 tanks in the Stalingrad region yesterday, Soviet headquarters announced:

"Our troops fought fierce engagements with enemy tanks and infantry. . . . One Soviet unit repulsed several serious enemy attacks. . . . In another sector, Soviet infantry supported by artillery and tanks stubbornly repulsed the enemy attacks. . . ."

But the situation was admittedly critical, with the Germans throwing 80 to 100 divisions into an all-out attempt to capture the Volga stronghold and exploiting the familiar Nazi tactic of dropping parachute troops and airborne motorcycle units behind the lines.

In the Caucasus, bitter fighting continued as the Germans won new ground below Krasnodar, in a drive to the Black Sea naval base at Novorossisk, but met stiffening resistance in the mountains of the central Caucasus.

In the Far Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that allied bombers smashed at an east-bound Japanese convoy 150 miles off New Guinea as the enemy sped reinforcements for a huge armada seeking to regain American captured bases in the Solomons.

A communiqué said the United Nations airmen destroyed a Japanese gunboat and battered two enemy transports.

Other allied fliers destroyed 13 grounded Japanese planes at Buna, New Guinea, destroyed several beached Japanese barges, and dropped eight tons of bombs on Japan's big bases at Rabaul and Gasmata, New Britain.

While Tokyo remained silent on the vast sea-air battle which has been developing for four days in the southeast Solomons, a German broadcast asserted without confirmation elsewhere that the Japanese had sunk a United States heavy cruiser. The broadcast gave no date for the sinking and it might have referred to a loss which Washington announced August 10.

DNB, the German news agency, acknowledged that a Japanese cruiser had been set afire, but said it was "still fighting."

The news agency asserted that the Japanese attacked the American squadron with superior air and naval forces and declared that attacks by low-level Japanese bombers led "the American commander to abandon his line of battle and continue it with independent units."

Advices from the navy, Washington and from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters made it clear that Japan was risking a powerful section of her fleet and had already suffered damage to half a dozen or more warships.

Other developments in the global war:

China war front—Japan's invasion armies, apparently planning a new venture elsewhere in the Far Pacific, were reported still withdrawing from China east coast provinces today as Chinese headquarters announced the recapture of the 11th important city in a week.

Chinese dispatches said the enemy was falling back on Nanchang, the big invasion base in Kiangsi Province, and declared Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces had retaken Tungshiang, 50 miles to the southeast.

Military quarters in Chungking, China's war-time capital, confidently awaited news that Chusien and Lishui, both potential "bomb Japan" bases in Chekiang Province, were back in Chinese hands.

Chusien is the site of the biggest air base in China, built with the help of 200,000 coolies.

Lishui, with the second largest field, was reported already under siege.

Battle of Egypt—While the desert front remained quiet, British planes attacked a land convoy moving reinforcements toward the El Alamein sector, 80 miles west of Alexandria, and scored direct hits on an Axis transport in the Mediterranean.

Western air war—A strong force of R.A.F. fighter planes streaked across the English Channel today following up yesterday's daylight attacks on western Germany and Holland.

Dutch Vessel Sinks After U-Boat Raid

(By The Associated Press)

The navy announced today that a small Dutch merchant vessel had been torpedoed and sunk in the Caribbean area in mid-August, boosting to 441 The Associated Press total of announced sinkings of United nations and neutral ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

One crew member was killed, four missing, and most of the 23 survivors suffered burns when a torpedo crashed into the merchantman just before midnight. The ship sank in four minutes, but survivors were picked up 45 minutes later by a U. S. Navy vessel.

"The survivors were just plain lucky," Chief Officer J. Wols reported after the rescue. "The whole aft end of the ship was covered with flames."

Three Boys Send Oil Coursing Into Ocean

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 26 (P)—With New England facing a shortage of fuel oil for next winter, three small boys today caused 750 gallons of the precious stuff to go oozing into the Atlantic ocean.

Two six year olds, and another boy of three wandered into the Briggs Coal Co. yard, smashed a padlock on a fuel pump connected with a 20,000 gallon tank, and released 750 gallons before they got tired of the sport.

The oil coursed into a drain and then through a culvert which ran for a half mile to King's Beach.

Bathers there, including many who are wondering how they're going to heat their houses, come winter, had to leave the water.

Police soon located the culprits who readily admitted the deed and their parents promised to make restitution in the amount of $60. Ironically, the father of one of the boys is in the oil business himself.

Washington Reports Battle Of Solomons Rages With Increased Fury in Wide Area

Americans Inflict Much Damage on Japanese Warships, Planes; Convoy Hunted

By JOHN H. WIGGINS

Washington, Aug. 26 (P)—The battle of the Solomons apparently was raging with increased fury and in a widening area today as the Japanese rushed reinforcements for a huge armada seeking to recapture American-held shore bases.

Locked in thunderous sea and air engagements which may possibly determine naval supremacy of the Pacific, American forces inflicted severe damage on enemy warships and planes in the south-eastern group of the Solomons while about 450 miles west Allied planes from General MacArthur's headquarters smashed at an east-bound Japanese convoy.

The entire picture of the spreading conflict was far from complete but scattered reports from the navy here and from MacArthur's Australian headquarters made it clear that Japan was risking a heavy portion of its fleet in a desperate effort to dislodge American mines from their hard-won positions in the Solomons.

The counter-attack, fully expected by the navy, already has brought bombing or torpedoing of more than a half dozen Japanese ships in the Solomons plus the stranding of two transports and destruction of a gunboat off south-eastern New Guinea.

The damaged vessels included one large and one small aircraft carrier. Only eight carriers were known to have been part of the enemy fleet before Pearl Harbor, although others undoubtedly have been added recently. Six Japanese carriers were sunk in previous actions including four in the Midway battle, one probably destroyed, and three others damaged there and off the Aleutian islands.

Additional punishment in the Solomons battle was inflicted by Allied carrier-based planes on a Japanese battleship and several cruisers. U. S. aircraft left another cruiser and transport in flames.

Thus far there have been no reports on the extent of American losses beyond the minor damage suffered at the opening of the conflict on August 23, when 21 Japanese planes were listed as destroyed in an attack on Guadalcanal Island.

Approximately 150 miles west of the convoy action, MacArthur reported destruction of 13 grounded Japanese planes and silencing of an anti-aircraft battery in two surprise attacks on Buna, on the southeastern New Guinea mainland.

Southward, Allied fighters claimed destruction of several beached Japanese barges and supplies, and at Japan's large New Britain bases at Rabaul and Gasmata, northwest of the Solomons, eight tons of explosives were dropped by bombers.

United States advantages in the possibly decisive sea battle were expected to lie in the fact that the marines have had time to dig in and consolidate their positions since they stormed ashore on the islands two and a half weeks ago.

Supported by substantial navy and army sea and air forces, the defenders, as at Midway, had the advantage of being able to send land-based aircraft against a sea attack.

After the navy's first communiqué yesterday on what it termed development of an expected "violent attempt" to recapture the American-held bases, one official who declined to be quoted by name, expressed the opinion that "we are winning the second round of the battle of the Solomons."

But, he added quickly, "the round is not over yet."

Ban on Paper Lifted

London, Aug. 26 (P)—The British home secretary today raised the ban on the Daily Worker. The Communist paper's publication was forbidden in January, 1941, on the ground that it had printed stories designed to foment opposition to Britain's war effort.

Several unsuccessful attempts were made to have the ban lifted after the German invasion of Russia. Last May 28 the British Labor Party conference by a close vote urged the government to permit the paper's resumption.

A month ago Communist party delegations went to Parliament from all over Britain and demanded that the ban be raised.

Named Principal

William C. Russell, who has been teaching in the West Hurley School for several years, has been appointed principal of the school by Trustee Clayton W. Vredenburg. He succeeds Ernest Myer, who takes the principalship of the Hurley school. Miss Irene Cuff of Kingston will teach the lower grades of the school. On the advice of Superintendent of Schools Clarence Johnson the West Hurley school will open Tuesday, September 1.

Jamaica has more unemployed than in several years.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

A woman can be mighty sweet when she wants.

Mother—Sometimes there are rude boys in Sunday school who giggle and smile at little girls, and sometimes little girls smile back at them, but I hope my little girl does not behave like that.

Small Daughter—No, indeed, mother dear; I always put out my tongue at 'em.

I saw them marching off to war, no face was cast in doubt; I heard the blare of trumpets, and the gusto of the shout. I saw them from the windows lean, waving a last farewell; But what was in their soldier hearts? Ah, would that I could tell.

I only saw, I could not read the brave, determined look, No more than from a title page the substance of the book. But the luster of a glory, and the duty of the day, Shone on those soldier faces as they proudly rode away.

—Daniel B. Straley.

Voice (on the telephone)—Are you the game warden?

Game Warden—Yes, madam. What can I do for you?

Voice—Well, thank goodness, I have the right person at last. Would you please suggest some games suitable for a children's party?

Vision is what people think you have when you guess correctly.

A young man was being trained in first-aid methods. He was being questioned by his instructor:

Instructor—Suppose a man was very pale, sweating profusely, unconscious, bleeding from his eyes, nose and ears, his skull fractured, back broken, arms and legs smashed, besides several other injuries internal and otherwise. What would be the first thing to do in a case of that kind?

Young Man (after a slight pause)—I would bury him.

A woman wanted to have the shape of her nose altered, so she called on a beauty surgeon:

Woman—How much will you charge to alter the shape of my nose?

Beauty Surgeon—One hundred dollars, madam.

Woman—A hundred dollars! Isn't there something less expensive?

Beauty Surgeon (suavely)—Well, you could try walking into a lamp post.

Service With a Smile . . . He is most effective and most useful in the community who gladly performs what service he can . . . There are far too few of that kind in our midst . . . Service with a smile means humanizing all we do . . . Capital and labor both need humanizing . . . The spirit of service is what makes employer and employee useful, happy, respectable together.

A murderer didn't have any attorney, so the court appointed one and the pair came up for pleading: The murderer looked over the lawyer and didn't like what he saw.

Murderer (to judge)—Is this the man who's going to defend me?

Judge—That's correct.

Murderer—Supposin' he should die? Would I get another lawyer then?

Judge—Certainly. A prisoner has that right always.

Murderer—Your honor, I just remember that I haven't had time to consult my attorney. Could I see him alone in a room for a few minutes?

Some people think that editors know everything but one thing none of them knows is why people waste stationery and stamps to write anonymous letters.

Recently an old Southern Negro who claimed to be "having symptoms" went to see a doctor. The doctor pried him with questions. Among other rather personal questions, he asked:

Doctor—And how are you kidding, Uncle George?

Negro—Well, Doc, dey is all grown up now and some of dem is married.

An evangelist makes a practice of painting Bible quotations and religious mottoes on rocks and fences along the public highways. On one big rock, he painted these words: "What Will You Do When You Die?"

A roving sign painter working for an oil company saw it and painted underneath: "Use Crack-proof. It Resists Heat."

Navy Seeks More Men For Physical Training

A five-year extension of the age limit for Navy chief specialists in athletics is expected to increase by hundreds the number of men who will apply for that rating during a special four-day recruiting program opening today in New York city. Authorized by Commander Gene Tunney, U. S. N. R., the search is for qualified men to serve as physical and drill instructors, and includes this area:

Temporary headquarters have been established at 47 Broad street, New York, where recruiting officers from the Bureau of Naval Personnel will interview applicants today, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

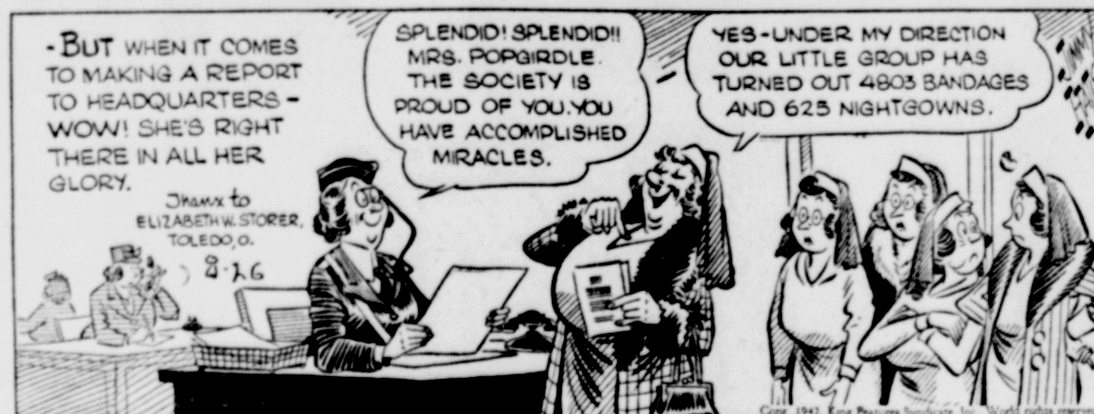

Qualifications for the rating are at least two years of college, be between the ages of 21 and 40, and have either military training or experience as physical instructors or coaches. Applicants must also bring with them the following: Transcript of college record, birth certificate, discharge from any previous military service, and two photographs, size 2½ inches by 2½ inches, taken within the last week.

Men who are enlisted this week will later be ordered to the Naval Training Station, Norfolk, Va., for an eight-weeks' training course.

State Employment Service Record Is Set in July

New York city, Aug. 25 — Record farm placements by the United States Employment Service in New York state were a principal factor in pushing up total placements for the month of July to an all time high of 74,181, according to Richard C. Brookway, U. S. E. S. director for New York. This represented a gain of 7,831 and a rise of 25,465 over July, 1941. The placement gain occurred almost wholly in the area outside New York city.

Agricultural placements increased from 3,891 in June to 9,851 in July, a gain of 153 per cent, as the harvest season began.

In New York city the number of registered job-seekers increased from 357,677, at the end of June to 368,386 at the end of July. In the upstate area, an opposite trend continued with registrations for work dropping from 110,414 in June to 104,060. The special New York city farm office placed only 88 workers directly with farmers, but in addition supplied more than 1,000 New Yorkers to fill farm orders relayed from upstate offices of the U. S. E. S.

In the Kingston office, total placements were 186. Of these, 39 were in manufacturing, 29 in household placement, and 118 in other fields. Total June placements were 161. The total number of registrations for work on file at the end of July in the local office were 1,205 as compared to 1,250 at the end of June.

Placements in New York city manufacturing industries gained 14 per cent over June. This increase compares with a gain of only 6.4 per cent for the same period last year. Seasonal factors make the comparison inaccurate as a reflection of general employment conditions, however, Mr. Brookway pointed out. He cited the fact that New York city clothing industries did not experience the usual sharp seasonal slump between April and the later part of July last year, and that the usual sharp seasonal pickup was therefore not reflected in the July placement figures. This year, however, preliminary state unemployment insurance data shows that employment in New York city clothing firms dropped 28 per cent between March and June. A much larger gain in July placements reflecting recovery from this slump, might therefore have been expected, he said.

Birth statistics show that quadruplets appear once in 658,403 births.

PERHAPS THE HUSBAND IS TOO CONSIDERATE

Whether a wife may go out with her husband's friend while the husband stays home with the baby, may in one exceptional case be quite all right, but I can't say I like to recommend it! The wife in question has written me as follows:

"Our family consists of John (my husband) our young son, my brother, and me. Fred A.—who is a very real friend of John's has asked me as an especial favor to go with him to a party which is being given by the company in which he is employed. His ticket is for himself and lady! He is not married and has no girl friend whom he cares to take. My brother cannot be home that same evening, and so John would have to stay home with the baby—even if Fred could get a ticket for him, John wants me to go. In fact he says Fred (who is socially very shy) will have a miserable time of it, and that I will enjoy it very much. My brother thinks it looks all wrong and says it will be sure to start gossip. John and I both think that a husband's approval is sufficient; Isn't that right?"

To this I agree that it is right so far as you and your husband are concerned, but whether your brother may also be right depends on several factors. The first is the community you live in. In a large city in a large crowd, strangers are not likely to be noticed. In a small town the attitude of your neighbors, while perhaps not critical, is likely to be questioning. In other words I am not sure but that your husband may pay an unfair price for an impulse of kindness to a perfectly worthy but actually unthinking friend.

Chairmen of Junior Assembly Mid-Summer Dance

MISS PATRICIA MCCABE

MISS MAUREEN TROY

MISS OLIVE LEWIS

Friday evening, the Junior Assembly group will sponsor its mid-summer dance for the benefit of the U. S. O. Arranging for the dance is a committee of the Junior Assembly headed by the co-chairmen, the Misses Patricia McCabe and Maureen Troy. Two of the other chairmen are Miss Olive Lewis, chairman of the refreshment committee and Miss Mary Frances Matthews, whose committee is making the patriotic war stamp corsages which will be sold at the dance.

This year the dance will be held at the Twaalfskill Club House with dancing from 9 o'clock until 1 a. m. Invitations may still be secured from members of the dance committee whose ticket chairman is Robert Weber.

The music committee headed by William Baker has secured Phil Toffel and his orchestra to furnish music for dancing. In order that the full proceeds of the dance would augment the U. S. O. fund, the young people have secured patronage from their parents to pay for this orchestra.

Morin Says Jap Plan for East Asia Is Not Working

Oriental Themselves Resist Japanese; Says Plan Only Propaganda Bait at Best

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Japanese scheme for a "greater cooperative East Asia," their version of the Nazi new order, is not working out, either politically or economically, Reiman Morin, Associated Press correspondent, said today.

Morin, who was interned and questioned by the Japanese at Saigon, French Indo-China, at the start of the Pacific war, returned yesterday on the exchange liner Gripsholm. Before going to Saigon, Morin had been chief of bureau in Tokyo, 1937-1940, and then began a roving assignment which took him to Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies.

"The scheme was never anything but a propaganda lure in any case," Morin said. "In some areas taken by the Japanese army during the last nine months—in former white colonies or territories—the native populations are cooperating almost 100 per cent with their new rulers. In others, Orientals not only fought to keep out the Japanese, but even today are resisting in their own quiet ways."

Chaotic conditions developed swiftly following the Japanese conquest of southeastern Asia. Morin said he had learned in talks with various American observers, doctors and economists, and the food problem was weekly growing more acute in Japan herself.

Vaughn Meisling, former Associated Press correspondent at Hongkong, said the so-called Japanese co-prosperity had the once rich British crown colony "like a desert wind." Hunger, looting and disease prevailed.

charge of one division in the morning from 8:45 to 11 a. m. and another group in the afternoon from 1 to 3:15 p. m. One teacher, Miss Eleanor Wright, will have charge of one group in No. 5 School in the morning from 8:45 to 11 a. m. and in the afternoon she will have charge of a group in No. 2 School from 1 to 3:15 p. m.

Under this plan of organization, the two teachers will be able to take charge of four different groups and will thereby make it possible for a larger number of children to have this kindergarten training and experience.

Birth Date Required

All children entering kindergarten or the first grade for the first time must present a certificate showing date of birth. This certificate may be either a birth certificate, a baptismal certificate, a bible record or a sworn affidavit. This is a state requirement and it is important that parents should present this certificate or other evidence of date of birth when the child enters school.

All children transferring to the Kingston public schools from any other public or private schools should present a similar certificate showing date of birth and also should present a transfer or a report card from the previous school.

M. J. M. School

The following information is on registration of all students who expect to attend the Myron J. Michael School and to the students who expect to leave the Myron J. Michael School for the Kingston High School, September 1, 1942.

The Myron J. Michael School will open Tuesday, September 1, and the following regulations will aid those entering the school. Observation of these instructions will be of assistance to both students and school officials.

All students promoted from the Myron J. Michael School to the Kingston High School will report to the high school auditorium at 1 p. m. Tuesday, September 1.

All Myron J. Michael School students, who expect to return again this year, will report to their home room at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, September 1.

All eighth-year students promoted to the ninth year and who wish to register for homemaking, shop, art or agriculture courses will report to the high school auditorium at 1 p. m. Tuesday, September 1.

All new high school students just entering the first year who expect to register in the college entrance, Latin, academic or business courses will report in Study Hall "B" of the Myron J. Michael School at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, September 1.

Non-resident high school students just entering the first year who expect to attend the Myron J. Michael School should be prepared to submit school credentials: Name of school trustee, number of school district, and name of town in which you live as well as being provided with necessary writing materials.

All seventh-year students from the public or private elementary schools promoted to the eighth year will report to the Myron J. Michael School Auditorium at 1 p. m. Tuesday, September 1.

All eighth-year students new to the city of Kingston will report to the Myron J. Michael School Auditorium at 1 p. m. Tuesday, September 1.

Principal Frank L. Meagher will be in his office Monday, August 31, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. or any other time by appointment to confer with parents or students on any phase of this school program for the coming year.

High School

Kingston High School will open the fall term on Tuesday, September 1, at 8:30 a. m.

Old students will occupy temporarily the roll call rooms which they used last term and continue to do so until new assignments are made. The first day's session will close at approximately 12 o'clock.

Transfers from other high schools will report at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday morning to the front of Hall A. They will endeavor to have their credentials from their former schools already in the office of the principal by that time. If there are any difficulties in this connection the principal should be contacted at once. Unnecessary delay should be avoided so far as possible. Students cannot be admitted from other high schools by transfer until their credentials from the other school are properly presented to the principal's office.

All students entering high school for the first time (this includes those coming from the Myron J. Michael School, the parochial schools and rural grammar schools) who intend to make homemaking, art, shop or agriculture courses, will report to the Kingston High School at 1 p. m. Tuesday afternoon in the high school auditorium. Students entering high school for the first time in the college, Latin, academic or business courses, are to report to the Myron J. Michael School at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday morning.

Students coming from a rural school are to be sure to bring their credentials from the rural schools or to see that the proper officials do so. Non-resident students are to be particularly sure that they know their school district, the town or township in which they reside, the names of their school trustees, in order to better complete their registration.

All students, old and new, should be well equipped with writing materials in order to be able to make registrations and other written records when called upon.

All students who have acquired the proper age and who desire to go on short schedules for work purposes must arrange these matters with the principal ahead of time. No arrangements for short schedules are to be made except through the principal's office. The office will be open from now on every day until school opens. This includes Monday, August 31. It is suggested that all students with special problems of one sort or another have these matters cleared up so far as possible before schools open on Tuesday, September 1.

The schedule for the first three days will be as follows: Tuesday, September 1, 8:30 a. m., all old students report to old roll call rooms and transfers to the front of Hall A. 1 p. m., new students from Myron J. Michael and grammar schools, city and rural, will report to the Kingston High School auditorium if they intend to take the following courses in high school: Homemaking, shop, art or agriculture. (New 9th year students taking the college, Latin, academic or business courses, report to the Myron J. Michael School at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday.) Wednesday, September 2, 8:30 a. m., all old and new students report to assigned places. 1 p. m., the guidance committee will be in session all afternoon for those with guidance problems. Thursday, September 3, there will be full regular program with cafeteria service. There will be the regular school hours from 8:30 to 3:15 o'clock.

All girls who are desirous of working in the cafeteria this term should see Mrs. Cure in the cafeteria promptly at the close of school on Tuesday afternoon.

All students contemplating taking post graduate courses are to remain away from school until Thursday at which time they will make their arrangements with the principal any time during Thursday, September 3.

Community Night Program

Some 2,500 people assembled at Cornell Park last evening to witness the final community night program of the season to be presented there. The program included numerous selections by the Kingston New Yorkers under the direction of Al Rossi. The songsters of the evening were Kay Bailey, Joan Wells, Phillis Wolff, Carrie Lindsey, Betty Smith and Norma and Ernest Cozza.

The outstanding feature of the program was the pie eating contest with Joe Schabot and Alphonso Williams taking the honors. Mayor William Edelmuth in a brief address received much applause from the children and parents when he promised to have a fence put up around the park. The directors, Rose Abernethy, Lucille Kline and Raymond Hyland, together with the children, express their thanks to Ketterer's, Gruenwald's and Peterman's bakeries for the pies which they donated for the pie-eating contest.

Stewart Field Is Opened for Army

U.S.M.A. Airport on Site Donated by Newburgh; Cadets to Train

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Stewart Field, multi-million dollar airport of the United States Military Academy, was formally dedicated yesterday with 269 second-classmen registered for basic flying training.

The airport site was presented to the academy by the city of Newburgh with Mayor Herbert A. Warden handing over the original deed of the property to Major General Francis B. Wilby, superintendent of the academy. During the ceremonies 48 planes, each containing a cadet and an officer-instructor, flew over the field.

General Wilby revealed that this was the first of a chain of four fields to be operated by the academy. Auxiliary fields will be constructed at Montgomery, Galesville and New Hackensack.

"I know we shall look back on this occasion as one of the milestones in the history of the academy," he said.

youngsters won't be needed for at least two weeks—apples aren't ripe yet.

Later 15 boys boarded another boat and went to Poughkeepsie to seek work. Three of them walked five miles from Poughkeepsie to Manchester, where E. Stuart Hubbard, chairman of the Southern Dutchess County Apple Growers, gave them work at odd jobs until apples are ripe.

The boys had paid their own fares, $1.85 from New York to Kingston and carried packs with work clothing and personal effects. They expected to have work at 30 to 35 cents an hour until the picking season ended October 4, paying for their own board and room. It is stated that housing arrangements had been made by the Kingston employment office.

Miss Henrietta Rothstein, farm co-ordinator for the employment service, is quoted as saying that Ulster county growers last week asked the Kingston branch office to supply the apple pickers by Tuesday. Yesterday, she said, the farmers decided that the crop, slow to ripen because of cool and rainy weather, would not be ready for picking for a week or two.

Miss Rothstein said that adjustments would be made with the boys for the money they had expended.

Eclipse, Blackout Aid in Slaying

Guns From Auto Fell Man in Brooklyn Prior to Army Alert

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Gangland guns found two unwitting allies last night when under the double cover of a city-wide blackout and a lunar eclipse they spurted flames of death from a speeding automobile that escaped in the confusion of darkness and wailing police sirens.

Four bullets fired from the car felled Salvatore Maggio, 36-year-old suit presser, as he stood near his parked automobile on a Brooklyn street at 9:23 p. m. (E.W.T.)—just two minutes before an army-ordered "Red" air raid alert set sirens a-wail.

Police prowled cars already were shrieking the warning for the surprise raid alert test when they received the alarm for the murder car, while at 9:01 p. m. the earth's shadow had begun blotting out the moon, almost as if in conspiracy with the slayers.

With pedestrians running for shelter, and both man-made and heavenly light blinking out rapidly, police missed the killers' sedan, which was further indistinguishable because it was black.

The 50-minute practice air alert was the longest the city has undergone.

The eclipse lasted from 9:01 o'clock when the moon entered the penumbra or partial shadow of the earth until 2:34 a. m. when it emerged, having been in total eclipse from 11:01 until 2:35 o'clock.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, who heretofore has set the time for practice blackouts, received only four minutes' notice himself, when Brig. Gen. J. K. Cannon, commanding the First Fighter Command at Mitchel Field, Long Island, telephoned that an alert was about to be staged.

Some excitement swept a crowd of 10,000 in Times Square when, almost at the same time the lights went out, a big airplane could be heard droning overhead. One woman shouted "this is it!" but air raid wardens quieted her. The shadow of New York's surprise blackout spread over the Hudson river-side community of Cliffside Park, N. J., much to the embarrassment of borough civilian defense officials who learned later the test was not meant to include any part of New Jersey.

The wailing of sirens rent the night air soon after lights went out across the river; in Manhattan and air raid wardens jumped to their tasks. When residents who were requested to comply with blackout orders protested that the street lights were shining brightly, the defense authorities began to look into the alarm.

Residents of other communities meanwhile, taxed telephone lines to their own police station to inquire if the "blackout" also affected them.

The confusion was ended at 10:10 p. m. when the "all clear" was sounded in Cliffside Park and an investigation was promised by Leo Swaim of Jersey City deputy regional civilian defense director.

Bill Simmons Pitches Against Newark Tonight at Stadium

Leon Day May Get Call to Toe Rubber For Visiting Eagles

Angelo Lucchi Is Slated for Outfield Again; Willie Wells Coming; Game at 8:45 P. M.

Baseball returns to the municipal stadium tonight at 8:45 o'clock when the crack Newark Eagles of the Negro National League make their second appearance of the current season against the Kingston Recreationers. Newark holds a 6 to 2 verdict over the Rees this year.

Sweet revenge will be the motto for the local ball club tonight. The Rees haven't forgotten that last defeat handed out by one Leon Day, who some fans agree has been the best hurler to visit Kingston this year. Day was in great form that night when he made a brilliant relief pitching chore by striking out 11 and limiting the Rees to two hits in eight and one-third innings.

Rees Strengthened
It will also be a chance for Bill Simmons to reap some revenge on the Newark squad. Bill dropped that 6-2 verdict to the Eagles in that last outing. Now he's primed for tonight's big encounter and with his infield strengthened with the addition of Roy Tarr and Al Cuccinello, he figures he can even the matter. Simmons will be after his fifth win of the campaign tonight.

Manager Joe Hoffman hasn't given out any definite information concerning his starting lineup but it is still apparent that one more change should be made in the outfield to pep up the attack. Angelo Lucchi will be back in uniform and will cavort in the rightfield slot. Ernie Downer is slated for the midway picket post again. Either Tommy Maines or Frankie San Filippo will be in left. Ralph Coleman, Cuccinello, Tarr and Buddy Van Herpe will round out the infield. Whitey Kowalek will do the

Newark Eagle

RAY DANDRIDGE

Besides the battle between the Newark Eagles of the Negro National League and the Kingston Recreationers at the municipal stadium tonight, there should be another hotly contested struggle for the fans who will see two great second basemen. Ray Dandridge, who is considered one of the best in negro ranks, will be on the key-stone sack for the Newark club while Al Cuccinello will be holding down the midway slot for the Rees. Dandridge appeared with the Eagles in their first visit here and although he didn't have too many fielding chances, he's a real ball-hawk for those ground-ball grass cutters. Tonight's clash gets under way at 8:45 o'clock sharp.

catching again although it is understood that the Rees would like to get another hard-hitting catcher.

Showing plenty of class, the Eagles took the attention of the local fans the last time here and club officials expect another great turnout to see this battle. Besides the outstanding Leon Day, the Eagles are paved by their manager, Willie Wells, who is destined for a try-out with the Pittsburgh Pirates soon, as is Day. Wells plays short and is one of the greatest septa shortstops of the day.

Newark will have Lenny Pearson, Ray Dandridge, Clarence Israel and Wells in the infield and Johnny Davis, Les Thompson and Eddie Stone in the outer gardens. Leon Ruffin will catch. Either Day, Jimmy Brown or Jimmy Hill will pitch for the visitors.

Waterbury Here Saturday
The Saturday feature this week will find Fred Davi returning to Kingston again with the Waterbury Brasscos, one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in the east this year. The Brasscos have defeated the Black Yankees, Puerto Ricans, Chicago American Giants and many other outstanding negro clubs. Davi, who formerly piloted the Kingston Colonials, is set to give the Rees a lacing. This game is slated for 9:15 o'clock. The probable lineups for tonight's game:

33,260 Spectators Jam Mound City Park; Browns Capture Third Place

(By The Associated Press)

The cup of cheer for St. Louis baseball fans is brimming over today with the Cardinals chopping away viciously at the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Browns installed in third place in the American League.

In the past the people of the metropolis on the Mississippi have shown they could take their baseball or leave it alone—and more often than not left it alone even when they had a pennant fight in their laps. But evidence of the spirit among them now is the combined turnout of 58,848 for two successive night games with the Dodgers this week.

They set a record for a night game in St. Louis Monday night with 25,588 and last night 33,260 jammed into Sportsman's Park to set a new mark—and to see one of the most breath-taking baseball battles of this or any other season.

For 12 innings the struggle was a scoreless standoff between those master hurlers, Whit Wyatt of the Dodgers and Mort Cooper of the Cards. Then things started happening fast. Manager Leo Durocher and Coach Chuck Dressen of the National League champions were banished from the field during an argument with the umpires. In the 13th Brooklyn broke the spell with a run off Cooper and the Redbirds retaliated by tying the score against Wyatt.

Larry French, the veteran southpaw who hasn't been beaten by any club except St. Louis, smothered the rally, but in the 14th he and rookie Les Webber were victimized for the deciding run with the cards getting a 2 to 1 triumph on a close play at home plate almost exactly at midnight, three hours and a half after the game began.

Down to 5½ Games

It was the second straight success for the Cardinals in their flourishing bid to overhaul Brooklyn and reduce the margin between the clubs to 5½ games, but it was rivaled by the big stride of the St. Louis Browns far away in Washington, where they captured a twilight-night doubleheader to move into third place in the American League.

Al Hollingsworth and Dennis Galehouse combined in a seven-hit hurling job to stop the Senators 8 to 1 in the first game and George McQuinn set off a rally in the 11th inning with a single to win the nightcap 3 to 2. Walter Masterson limited the Brownies to six hits in this affair, but the woeful Senators made four errors.

The St. Louis spurt was helped by the Boston Red Sox, who clamped down twice on the Cleveland Indians 4 to 3 and 5 to 1 during a turbulent doubleheader in which the first game went 11 innings. Manager Lou Boudreau and two Cleveland players were expelled between games for arguing with umpire and Ted Williams was booed for going hitless in both contests. This also cost him the league batting leadership.

In the first game Lefty Ken Chase pitched four-hit ball and Lou Finney singled with the bases loaded for the winning run. Southpaw Oscar Judd hurled a seven-hitter to take the second game and send the Indians to fourth place, 1½ games behind the Browns.

Yankees Win

The New York Yankees were held to seven hits by Johnny Humphries and scoreless for six innings, but the defense of the Chicago White Sox collapsed to give the world champions three runs in the seventh and Joe Gordon homered with one aboard in the eighth for a 5 to 3 verdict. Gordon made three hits altogether and passed Williams in the batting race.

Spitfires Capture Two Matches From Flying Tiger Club

Joe Weiss Paces Winners With 192 High Single; Tigers 1½ Games Behind Leaders

The Spitfires dealt a serious blow to the championship hopes of the Flying Tigers last night at the Central Recreation alleys in a regular Victory League Bowling match. The Spitfires proceeded to win two games and dropped their opponents one and a half games behind the league-leading Hurricanes.

After waddling around in the cellar for the better part of the campaign, the Spitfires suddenly came to life last Thursday night when they rocked the Flying Fortresses for three straight losses. Last night's two victories hiked the club to within six and a half games of first place.

Joe Weiss paced the Spitfires with a 192 high single of the match and a 450 triple. His other scores were 147 and 111. Larry Marino helped out with 417 while Don Keyser came in with 387.
The Flying Tigers, who were tied for first place with the Hurricanes before last night's ill-fated meeting with the Spitfires, had Frank Leskie in the driver's seat. Frank blasted out a 501 series on scores of 176, 156 and 169. Phil Gaff, who joins the Army Friday, came on with 435 while Johnny Frederick had 417.

Games Thursday

A re-arranged schedule has been planned for Thursday night when the Flying Tigers engage the Flying Fortresses. Spitfires meet the Tomahawks, Douglas Bombers and the Blenheims and finally the Hurricanes meeting the Wildcats.

The Standings to date:

	Won	Lost	Pct.	G.B.
Hurricanes	23	13	.638	...
Tigers	24	15	.615	1½
Fortresses	17	19	.472	6

Parker to Unveil New Forehand in Tennis Tourney

Milwaukee Ace Makes His Appearance Thursday; Second Seeded to Ted Schroeder

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Frankie Parker's forehand—as bruising as a co-ed's powder puff in the past—has undergone another revision and gets its 1924 unveiling at the National Tennis Tourney starting at the West Side Club in Forest Hills, Thursday.

Every year something new is added to the Parker shot that couldn't be heard a racket's length away. This season, however, with many of the top-flight stars either in the service or playing for cash, Coach Mercer Beasley figures that

Parker has the chance to end decade of frustration and win a title—"at least he is better than the 7 to 1 odds they are quoting." Parker, who was rated No. 1 nationally last year, became a presumptive to the tennis throne when Bobby Riggs and Fra Kovacs, No. 1 and 2, respectively joined the income taxpayers in winter.

The former Milwaukeean's 19 forehand has been kept in hiding this spring while he was busy with a movie job but the U. S. tennis fathers seeded him second to Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., in the big meet, anyhow.

Luck of the draw dropped him into the softer side of the field as he is expected to have plenty of opportunity to sharpen his wrap until the quarterfinals where William Talbert of Cincinnati, like will be his foe.
